

HISTORY

The rice plant, species Oryza sativa from the grass family, is believed to have originated in Asia as far back as 2500 B.C.

Some historians believe that rice traveled to America in 1694 in a British ship bound for Madagascar. Blown off course they found safe harbor in Charleston, South Carolina. The captain left rice seed to show his gratitude.